

The Jordan Honor Society Charter NEWSLETTER

What is the Sigma Theta Tau International for Nursing

The Honor Society of Nursing, Sigma Theta Tau International (STTI) is the second-largest nursing organization in the world with approximately 135,000 active members in more than 90 countries. The STTI was founded in 1922 at Indiana University School of nursing. In Greek words, the society's name is Storge, Tharsos, and Time which mean: "love," "courage" and "honor. This Honor Society of Nursing was one of the first organizations to fund nursing research in USA. Since then the society has guaranteed more than 250 research grants. The STTI has funded more than $650,000 annually to nursing research through grants, scholarships and awards. It produces two scholarly journals and many publications intended nursing knowledge dissemination. For further information about the STTI, visit the website: <http://www.nursingsociety.org/Pages/default.aspx>

The establishment of the Jordan Honor Society Charter / STTI (JHSC / STTI)

The JHSC / STTI was established in 29-12-2014 with approximately 90 members including faculty members, nursing leaders, certified nurses and nursing students. The main objective of the charter is to support nursing professionals to promote nursing education, practice and leadership. The charter will be announced as a chapter in STTI after 12 to 18 months from the first announcement. Then the active members will have all the benefits of the STTI.
